

COLLECTION
OF
BRITISH AUTHORS.

VOL. 906.

IDALIA BY OUIDA.

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOL. II.

I D A L I A.

A ROMANCE.

BY OUIDA.

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOL. II.

COPYRIGHT EDITION.

LEIPZIG

BERNHARD TAUCHNITZ

1867.

The Right of Translation is reserved.

CONTENTS

OF VOLUME II.

	Page
CHAPTER I. "The Devil tempted me, and I did eat"	7
— II. The Captive of the Church	31
— III. "Rien que Toi"	49
— IV. Lion and Leopard	83
— V. "Stoop down and seem to kiss me ere I die"	118
— VI. "Why must I 'neath the Leaves of Coronal press any Kiss of Pardon on thy Brow?"	141
— VII. "By Pride Angels have fallen ere thy Time"	162
— VIII. "By Morning touched with Aureole Light; by Sunset stranded"	201
— IX. "Athene to a Satyr"	216
— X. "The Serpent's Voice less subtle"	234
— XI. "Shall Evil be thy Good?"	266
— XII. "Is there no Place for Repentance, none for Pardon left?"	280
— XIII. "I Lean toward the Stroke with silent Mouth and a great Heart"	313
— XIV. "I would have given my Soul for This"	347
— XV. "Lost in the Night, and the Light of the Sea"	387