

"A Fresh and Inspiring Story."

TWO IN THE WILDERNESS.

By STANLEY WASHBURN.

Price 6s.

Fourth Edition.

THE TIMES—

The reader is never wearied with the excess of music upon one note.

THE MORNING POST—

A fresh and inspiring story.

THE OBSERVER—

A romance of rare realism.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE—

Well done ; very well done, in fact.

PALL MALL GAZETTE—

Differs entirely from the ordinary novel. . . .
Has a peculiar fascination.

LIVERPOOL POST—

Wholly enjoyable and conspicuously fresh.
One of the sweetest and most wholesome
romances we have read for a long time.

SATURDAY REVIEW—

A more than ordinarily attractive novel.

LONDON: ANDREW MELROSE, LTD.

A
W 109
84

FIELD NOTES FROM THE RUSSIAN FRONT

XII-8408

A

W<sup>A</sup> 109 / 84

FIELD NOTES FROM THE RUSSIAN FRONT

By
STANLEY WASHBURN

(Special War Correspondent of the "Times" with the Russian Armies)

ILLUSTRATED BY THE PHOTOGRAPHS OF GEORGE H. MEWES

SECOND IMPRESSION

LONDON: ANDREW MELROSE, LTD.
3 YORK STREET, COVENT GARDEN, W.C

A

To

LORD NORTHCLIFFE

IN APPRECIATION OF HIS EFFECTIVE SUPPORT AND
CO-OPERATION WHICH ALONE MADE POSSIBLE
MY WORK WITH THE RUSSIAN ARMY

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

WHEN Mr. Washburn sent the original typescript of the notes that make up this volume, he accompanied it with a letter in which he said he depended on the writer to exercise his judgment as to whether the matter should be published in book form or not: and in case of publication to give it careful and if need be drastic revision. The writer's judgment being that there was in these notes a sincere and even valuable book, there remained but to take advantage of the free hand which the Author gave him in the matter of revision.

The result is a considerably compressed book, but owing, however, to the limitations of time and knowledge on the part of the writer, and the impossibility of submitting proofs to the Author, there are no doubt technical and literary crudities which Mr. Washburn would have made right in normal circumstances. For the present they must remain, and if in trying to improve a passage which bad typescript made difficult to understand, the writer has made "howlers," he hereby absolves Mr. Washburn and accepts full blame.

A. M.

PREFACE

NO one realizes better than the writer the ephemeral character of the rough notes which form the bulk of the matter contained in this volume, and it has been with some hesitation that the material has been placed in the hands of the publisher for reproduction in book form. Much of the contents has already appeared in The Times (London), and various leading influential newspapers in America. It is by permission of the proprietors and editors of these journals that they are now reproduced, and to them the author extends his thanks for this permission.

The excuse for having these articles reprinted now is that the subject matter is still of current interest. The author is well aware that it is impossible to write authoritatively of operations so recent and of which at best he has been able to see but a trifling portion. He believes, however, that in Russian Poland will be decided the ultimate issue of the great contest