IN THE FIRST WATCH AND OTHER ENGINE-ROOM STORIES.

“One of the most faithful representations of life on the Indian and Chinese coasts that has come our way for many a long year. It would not be too much to say that we have never seen a better rendering of that phase of life at sea . . . only genius could better the style in which these stories are told.”—The Pall Mall Gazette.

“A very interesting collection. . . . People who like sea stories will find a decidedly original series in Mr Dalziel’s pages.”—The Spectator.

“It is rare, indeed, to find a volume of short stories so well balanced as those which have been told in ‘In the First Watch.’ There is not one which can be termed poor—nay, even indifferent—and there are several which are extraordinarily good.”—The Daily Telegraph.

“Mr Dalziel has humour of a pleasant kind. He makes his engines interesting, and he has a good invention. Better still, he is new, and has a province entirely to himself.”—The Manchester Guardian.

“It is long since we have had such a sea book. . . . In a sense he is hardly nautical; there is no ‘shiver my timbers.’ . . . The title story and ‘The Voice of the Machine’ are especially fine, but all the others run them close.”—The World.

“As powerful in their way as any sketches of seafaring life that we can recall.”—The Outlook.
