

“General, the man you seek stands before you”
(Page 81)

UNDER MAD ANTHONY'S BANNER

BY
JAMES BALL NAYLOR

AUTHOR OF
"Ralph Marlowe,"
"The Sign of the Prophet,"
"In the Days of St. Clair,"
Ect., Ect.

ILLUSTRATED BY
C. M. COOLIDGE

AKRON, OHIO
The SAALFIELD PUBLISHING CO.
NEW YORK 1903 CHICAGO

5123

RECHENKUNST
BIBLIOTHEKA
GÖTTINGEN
W. B. 1903
W45539-68

COPYRIGHT, 1903,
THE SAALFELD PUBLISHING COMPANY.

MADE BY THE WERNER COMPANY
AKRON, OHIO

To the memory of Gen. Anthony Wayne who saved the Northwest Territory for his country and furthered the westward march of civilization this book is gratefully dedicated.

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

	PAGE
“ General, the man you seek stands before you ” Frontispiece
A plump, fair-faced, little woman sprang over the sill and nestled in his arms	90
With a bold and fearless glance he swept the sea of faces before him	190
They reached camp in the cool of a summer’s evening, and were safe under the protect- ing folds of Mad Anthony’s banner . . .	300