

Ä

COLLECTION
OF
BRITISH AUTHORS.
VOL. CCCCXLVIII.

FREDERICK THE GREAT BY THOMAS CARLYLE.

VOL. V.

Ä

V 332
45

HISTORY
OF
FRIEDRICH II. OF PRUSSIA, CALLED FREDERICK THE GREAT.

BY THOMAS CARLYLE.

COPYRIGHT EDITION.

VOL. V.

LEIPZIG

BERNHARD TAUCHNITZ

1858.

The Right of Translation is reserved.

CONTENTS

OF VOLUME V.

BOOK IX.

LAST STAGE OF FRIEDRICH'S APPRENTICESHIP: LIFE IN RUPPIN. 1732-1736.

(Continued.)

CHAPTER	PAGE
VI. KING AUGUST MEDITATING GREAT THINGS FOR POLAND	1
VII. CROWN-PRINCE'S MARRIAGE	8
VIII. KING AUGUST DIES, AND POLAND TAKES FIRE	20
Poland has to find a new King, p. 22.
Of the Candidates; of the Conditions. How the Election went, 26.
Poland on Fire; Dantzig stands Siege, 32.
IX. KAISER'S SHADOW-HUNT HAS CAUGHT FIRE	35
Subsequent course of the War, in the Italian part of it, p. 39.
Course of the War, in the German part of it, 42.
X. CROWN-PRINCE GOES TO THE RHINE CAMPAIGN	45
Glimpse of Lieutenant Chasot, and of other acquisitions, p. 84.
Crown-Prince's visit to Baireuth on the way home, 88.
XI. IN PAPA'S SICK-ROOM; PRUSSIAN INSPECTIONS: END OF WAR	94

BOOK X.

AT REINSBERG. 1736-1740.

I. MANSION OF REINSBERG	121
Of Monsieur Jordan and the Literary Set, p. 135.
II. OF VOLTAIRE AND THE LITERARY CORRESPONDENCES	143
III. CROWN-PRINCE MAKES A MORNING CALL.	184
IV. NEWS OF THE DAY	195
Of Berg and Jüllich again; and of Luiscius with the One Razor, p. 203.
V. VISIT AT LOO	210
Crown-Prince becomes a Freemason; and is harangued by Monsieur de Bielfeld, p. 214.
Seckendorf gets lodged in Grätz, 224.
The Ear of Jenkins reëmerges, 228.
VI. LAST YEAR OF REINSBERG; JOURNEY TO PREUSSEN	230
Pine's Horace, and the Anti-Macchiavel, p. 233.
Friedrich in Preussen again; at the Stud of Trakehnen.
A tragically great Event coming on, 240.
VII. LAST YEAR OF REINSBERG: TRANSIT OF BALTIMORE AND OTHER PERSONS AND THINGS	248
Bielfeld, what he saw at Reinsberg and around, p. 254.
Turk War ends; Spanish War begins. A Wedding in Petersburg, 259.
VIII. DEATH OF FRIEDRICH WILHELM	266

MAP.

PHILIPSBURG	80
-----------------------	----

BOOK IX.

LAST STAGE OF FRIEDRICH'S APPRENTICESHIP:
LIFE IN RUPPIN.

(Continued.)

CHAPTER VI.

KING AUGUST MEDITATING GREAT THINGS FOR POLAND.

IN the Newyear's days of 1733, the topic among diplomatic gentlemen, which set many big wigs wagging, and even tremulously came out in the gray leaves of gazetteers and garretteers of the period, was a royal drama dimly supposed to be getting itself up in Poland at this time. Nothing known about it for certain; much guessed. "Something in the rumour!" nods this wig; "Nothing!" wags that, slightly oscillating; and gazetteers, who would earn their wages, and have a peck of coals apiece to glad them in the cold weather, had to watch with all eagerness the movements of King August, our poor old friend, the Dilapidated-Strong, who is in Saxony at present; but bound for Warsaw shortly, — just about lifting the curtain on important events, it is thought and not thought. Here are the certainties of it, now clear enough, so far as they deserve a glance from us.