«Филологический класс» – рецензируемый научно-методический журнал, сферой интересов которого являются исследования в области литературоведения, лингвистики и методики преподавания данных дисциплин в вузе и школе. Задача журнала – сблизить академическую науку с практической деятельностью педагога и обозначить представление о российском филологическом и педагогическом дискурсах в пространстве мировой науки. Приоритетными являются публикации, в которых исследуются новые литературные и корпусные источники, рассматривается внедрение новых образовательных технологий, выполняется требование академизма, научной объективности и полемической направленности. К публикации принимаются статьи на русском, английском, немецком и французском языках. Полнотекстовая версия журнала находится в свободном доступе на сайте издания и размещается на платформе Российского индекса научного цитирования (РИНЦ), Российской универсальной научной электронной библиотеки. Полная информация о журнале и правила оформления статей размещены на сайте: filclass.ru

Philological Class is a peer reviewed scholarly and methodological journal publishing research findings in the field of literary studies, linguistics and methods of teaching these disciplines at higher and secondary school. The task of the journal is to bring academic research closer to the practical activity of a pedagogue and to outline the image of the Russian philological and pedagogical discourses in the global academic space. Priority is given to publications which focus on new literary and corpus sources, study the issues of implementation of new educational technologies, and comply with the requirements of academic objectivity and polemic nature. Articles in Russian, English, German and French are accepted for publication in the journal. A full-text version of the journal is available open access on the journal site and in the Russian Science Citation Index (RSCI) at the scientific electronic library platform. Complete information about the journal and author guidelines can be found on the web site filclass.ru
