

BARRING OUT,

AND

ETON MONTEM.

PARIS. — PRINTED BY FAIN AND THUNOT,
23, rue Racine, near the Odeon.

BARRING OUT,

AND

ETON MONTEM,

STORIES FOR CHILDREN,

BY

MARIA EDGEWORTH.

A New Edition.

PARIS :

BAUDRY'S EUROPEAN LIBRARY,
3, QUAI MALAQUAIS, NEAR THE PONT DES ARTS;
AND STASSIN AND XAVIER,
9, RUE DU COQ.

—
1846.

THE BARRING OUT;

OR,

PARTY SPIRIT.

“The mother of mischief,” says an old proverb, “is no bigger than a midge’s wing.”

At Doctor Middleton’s school, there was a great tall dunce of the name of Fisher, who never could be taught how to look out a word in a dictionary. He used to torment every body with—“Do pray help me! I can’t make out this one word.” The person who usually helped him in his distress, was a very clever good-natured boy, of the name of De Grey. De Grey had been many years under Dr. Middleton’s care, and by his abilities and good conduct did him great credit. The Doctor certainly was both
